TO TELEPHONE THE DEMOCRAT CALL

AKRON FAIR FOR AKRON PEOPLE.

Deciding what kind of a Street Fair Akron ought to have this year should not be a very difficult task for the public spirited citizens who have the matter in charge.

Akron wants a Fair that will best advertise the city's enterprise and greatness to thousands of visitors from abroad, afford entertainment for the local citizens, and be a source of advantage to the merchants and manufacturers upon whom will rest the chief burden of making the event

Mr. Paul E. Werner voiced popular sentiment at the meeting of the citizens last night when he said that without the advance assurance of abundant means and vigorous management the Street Fair project would be an idle undertaking.

His idea was that it should be an Akron Fair, managed by Akron business men, for the benefit of Akron. and Akron's citizens. No indifferent or balting event, exploited for private profit, and reflecting no credit upon the city, but one worthy of all the prestige that liberal financial aid and concerted action on the part of the merchants, manufacturers and public spirited citizens can

Mr. Werner's suggestion that a $20,000 fund be pledged in advance to guaranty the expenses of the Fair. met with approval. Such a fund -simply means that those having direct charge of the management will not only feel amply indemnified against individual loss, but they will be free to go ahead and give Akron a Street Fair of which all citizens may be proud.

Now that this guaranty is practieally assured, it remains for the merchants and manufacturers to perfect plans according to their own

The very fact that the Fair is to be managed exclusively by local people, acting for the best interests of the city; that there are to be no private beneficiaries; that promotion of Akron's general welfare is the sole motive involved, will impel hundreds of our citizens, who would otherwise remain indifferent to the Fair's success, to contribute liberally of their time and means to helping the worthy cause along.

Col. Dick certainly touched off the wrong set of fireworks when he tried to explode that mine under Chairman Huling. Huling controls a few mines himself, anchored dangerously near the Hanna craft; and he let them all go at once. No wonder Commodore Dick found it necessary to retire from action for repairs.
